"I will stay with you and help you work."

The hen said,
"I will stay with you and lay eggs."

The rooster said,
"I will stay with you and wake you up."

The boy said,
"I will stay with you and milk your cow."

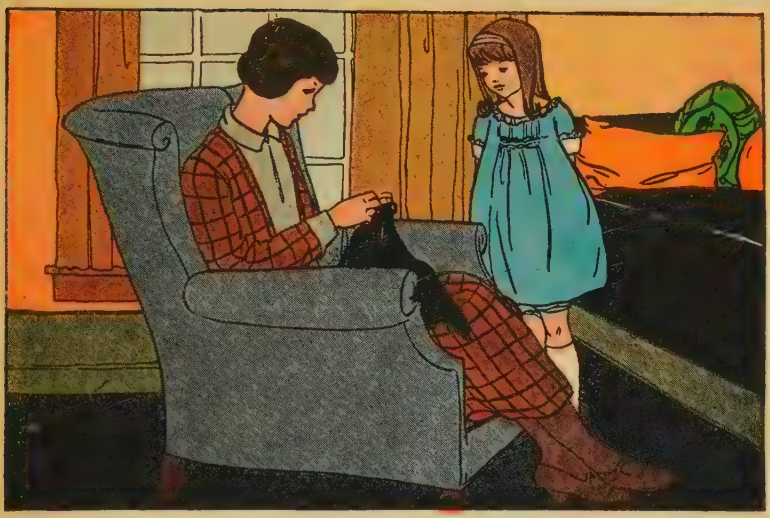
So they all went to work.

Jiggle-ty jolt.

Jiggle-ty jolt.



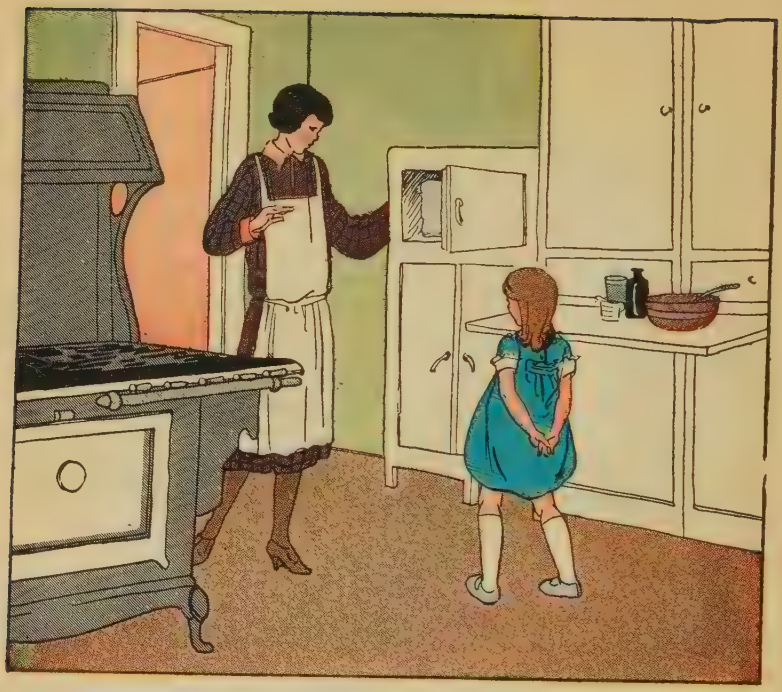
The Play Party

Jane said,

"Mother, may I have a little cake?
Jack and I want to play party."

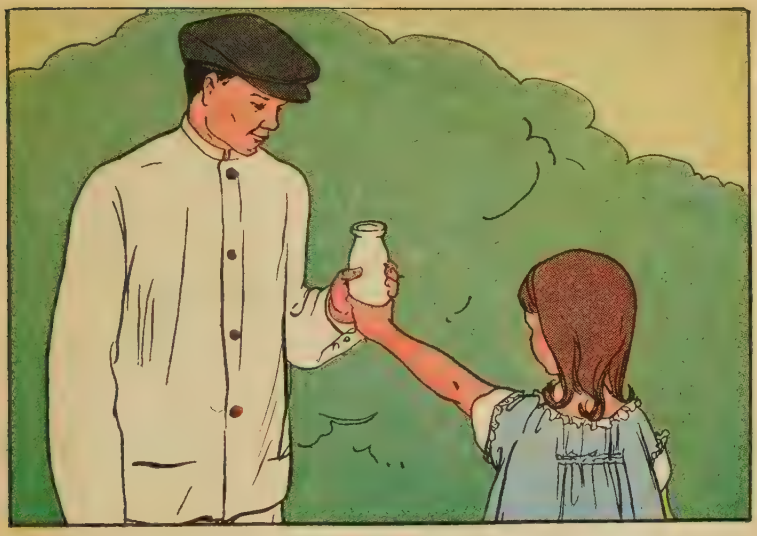
Mother said,

"I shall make some little cakes.
Then you may have some."

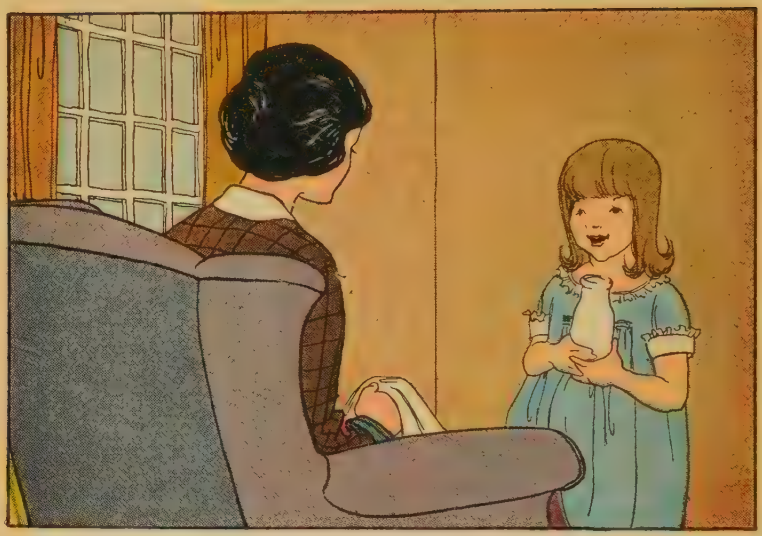


Soon Mother said,
"I can not make little cakes.
I have no milk."

Jane said,
"The milkman will come soon.
I shall get the milk."



Jane looked for the milkman.
Soon he came.
She met the milkman.
She said,
"Have you milk for my mother?"
The milkman said,
"This is milk for your mother."
"Thank you," said Jane.



Jane went to Mother.
She said,
"I have the milk for you."
Mother said,
"Thank you, Jane.
Now I can make the cakes.
You and Jack may have little cakes to play party."

Jack and Jane played party.
They had milk.
They had little cakes.

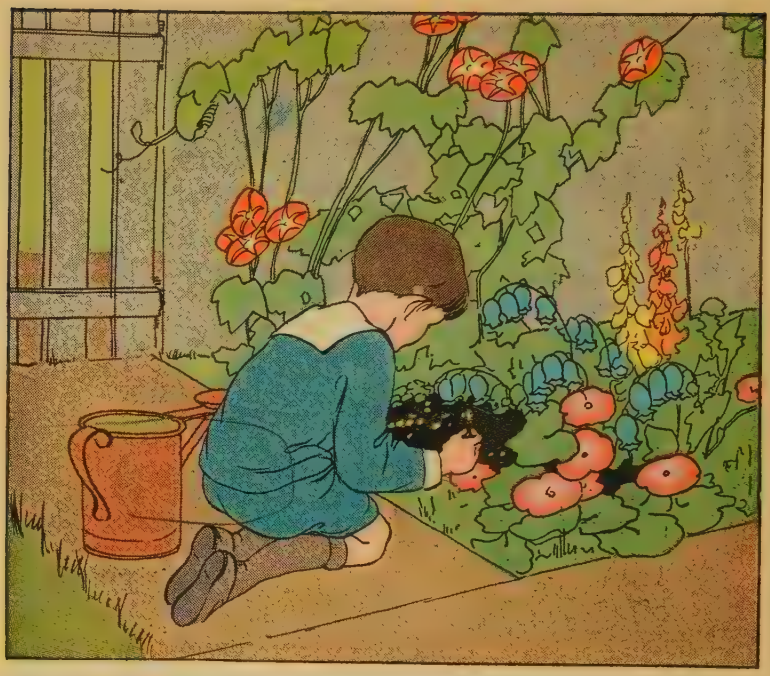
Terry had milk.
Terry had little cakes.

Terry said, "Bow wow,
I like this party."

Sailing His Boat

Jack was sailing his little boat.
Terry was asleep in the sand.
The boat was carried far away.

"Terry, Terry," said Jack.
"Wake up, wake up.
My little boat is far away.
Bring back my little boat."
"Bow wow," said Terry.
Terry jumped into the water.
He came back with the boat.
Jack said, "Good old Terry!"



Jack's Work

Jack had a garden.
Jack carried water to his garden.
He got the weeds
out of his garden.
He had a fine garden.

The children came to see Jack's garden.
After a time
Jack did not want to work in his garden.

One morning he said,

"I want to be a milkman.
Then I can drive a horse.
I can drive every day.
That is fun.
There he is now."

"Good morning, milkman," said Jack.
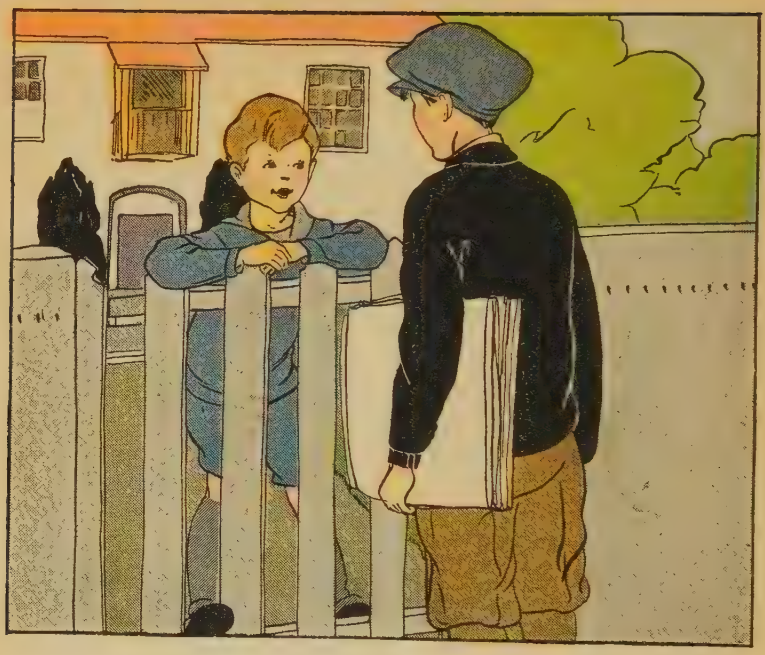
"I wish I could go with you."
"You can, Jack,"
said the milkman.
"Get up early in the morning.
I go to work early.
Children must have milk
for breakfast.
I work
when the children are asleep."



Jack sat down to rest.
Soon the paper boy came by.
"Good morning, paper boy,"
said Jack.
"It must be fun to be a paper boy.
Will you help me to be a paper boy?"

"Yes," said the paper boy.
"Get up early in the morning.
I must go to work early.
People want the morning paper
when they wake up.
I go after my papers.
I take them under my arm.
I must walk a long way."
"That is hard work," said Jack.

Soon the postman came.

"Good morning, postman," said Jack.

"I wish I were a postman.

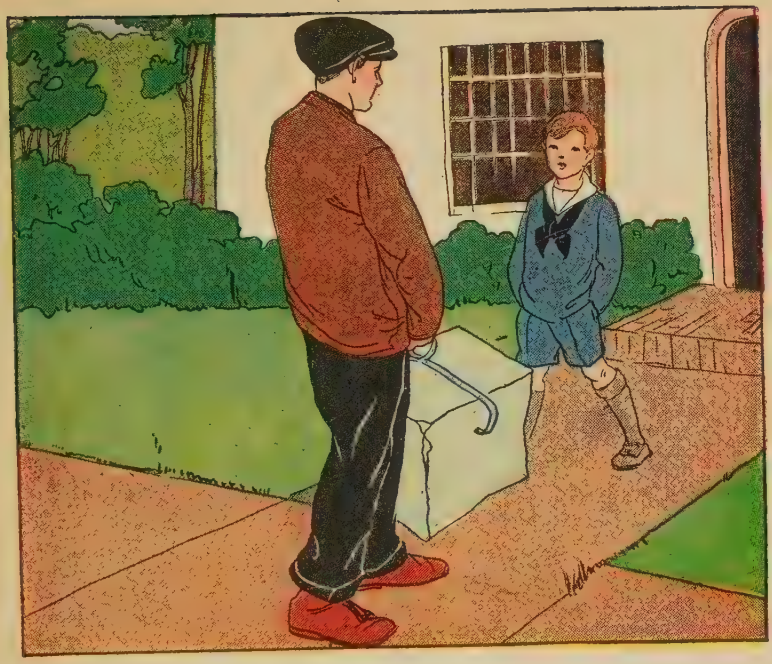
People would be glad to see me."

"Could you carry mail all day?" said the postman.

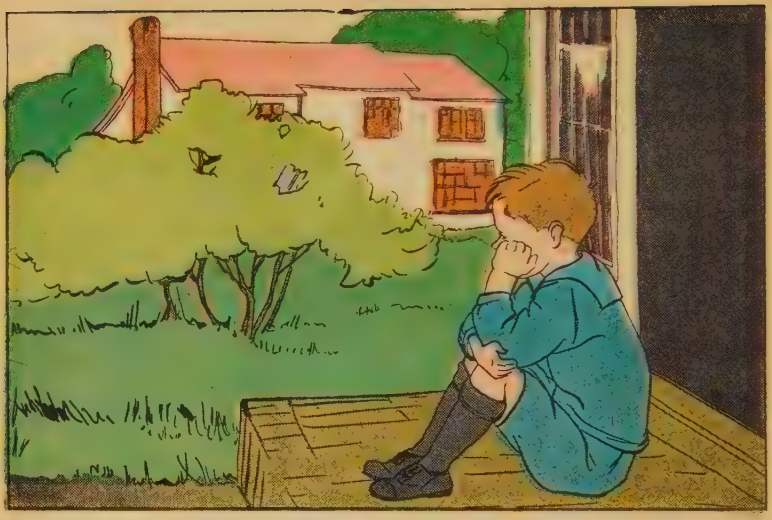
"There is no time to play.

People want me to come every day."

"That is hard work, too," said Jack.



Then the iceman came.
"Good morning, iceman," said Jack.
"I wish I were the iceman.
I would give the children ice."
"Could you carry ice all day?"
said the iceman.



Jack thought and thought.
I want to be a milkman.
But he must get up early.
I want to be a paper boy.
But he must get up early, too.
I wish I were the postman.
But he can not play.
It would be fun to be the iceman.

But that is hard work, too.

Work in the garden is not so hard.

I have time to read and time to play.

What Is My Name?

I come every day.

I come in the morning.

I get up early.

I come when Jack and Jane are asleep.

I bring the paper.

What is my name?

I get up early.

I drive a horse.

I come before breakfast.

I come every morning.

I bring Jane's breakfast.

I bring Jack's breakfast.

I bring it in bottles.

I carry bottles away with me.

What is my name?

I bring it to Jane's house.

I bring it every day.

I carry it on my back.

It comes on the train.

It comes from far away.

I put it into the mail box.

People are glad to see me.

What is my name?

I come to Jane's house.

I drive a big horse.

I bring ice for the milk.

I bring ice for the water.

The ice is in big blocks.

Some people get big blocks.

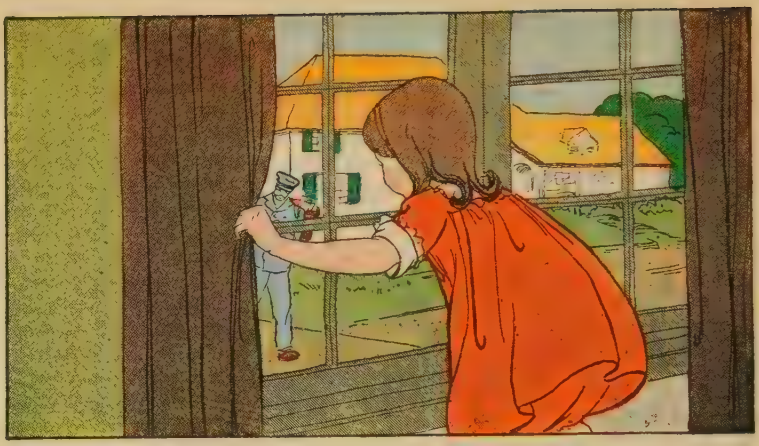
I am a big man.

The Organ Man

The organ man came one day.
He had a monkey.
Jane gave the monkey a penny.
The organ man played the organ.
Then the monkey danced.

Jane gave the monkey some cake.
The monkey liked the cake.
The organ man played and played.
The monkey danced and danced.

Jane said to the organ man,
"Where did you get the monkey?"
The organ man said,
"The monkey came from far away."



Jane's Letter

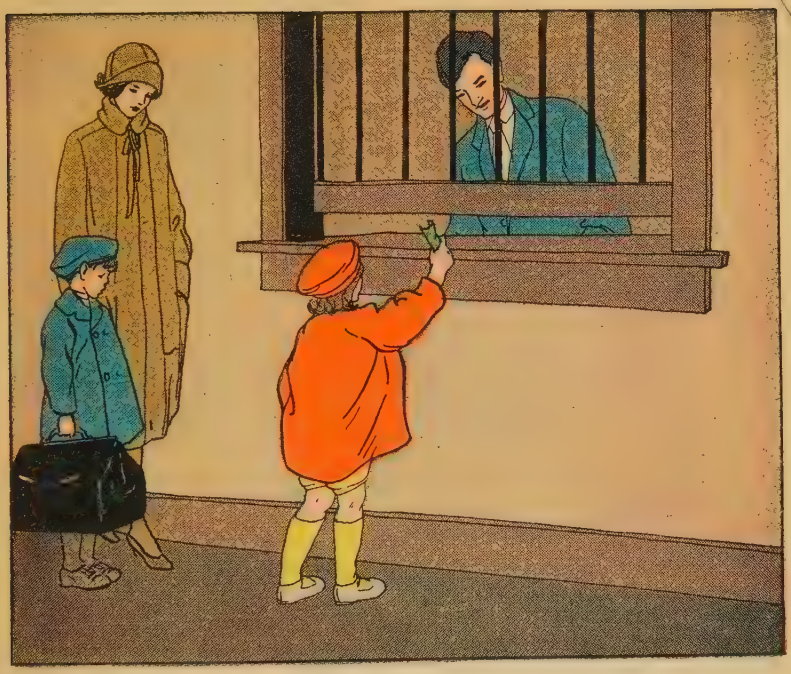
One morning Jane said,
"I see the postman."
The postman came.
Jane met him.
"Have you a letter?" said Jane.
"Yes," said the postman,
"I have a letter for you."
"Thank you," said Jane.

Mother, Mother, I have a letter.
It is from Grandmother.
The letter says,
"Dear Jane,
Come to see me soon.
Grandmother."

"Mother," said Jane,
"I can write.
I can write in school.
May I write a letter?
May I write a letter
to Grandmother?"

Mother said, "Yes, Jane,
you may write a letter
to Grandmother.
Jack may play postman."

Jane wrote a letter.
The letter said,
"Dear Grandmother,
I shall come to see you soon.
Jane."



Going To See Grandmother

Jane and Jack went to see Grandmother.
They went with Mother on the train.
Mother said,
"Jane, you may get the tickets."

Jane bought the tickets.
Then they had to wait for the train.
Soon it came.
It said, "Choo, choo."
They heard the bell.
They got on the train.

Mother said,
"Jack may give the tickets to the conductor."

Jack gave the tickets to the conductor.

Jack said,
"I like to ride on the train."

Jane said,
"This is fun."

On the See Saw

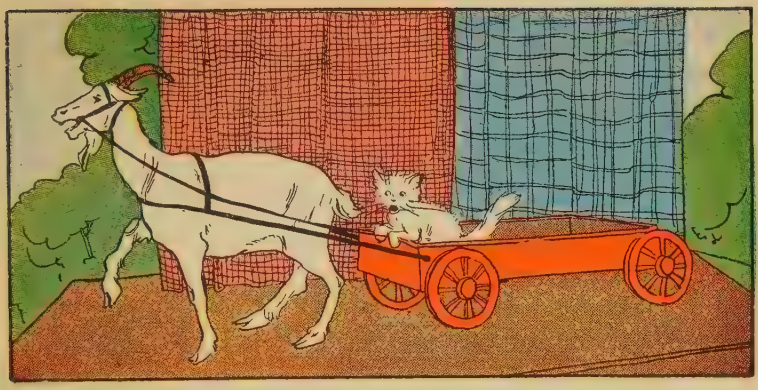
Jack and Jane went to the train.
They went to see Grandmother.
They played on the see saw.

Jane got on the see saw.
Jane went away up.
Jack went away down.
Jane went away down.
Jack went away up.

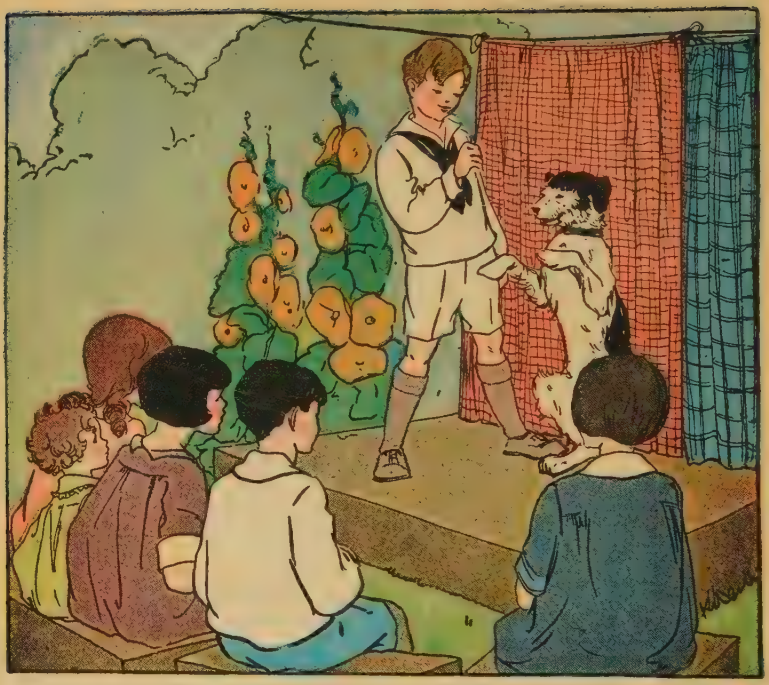
They went up.
They went up and down.
They had a good time.

The Circus

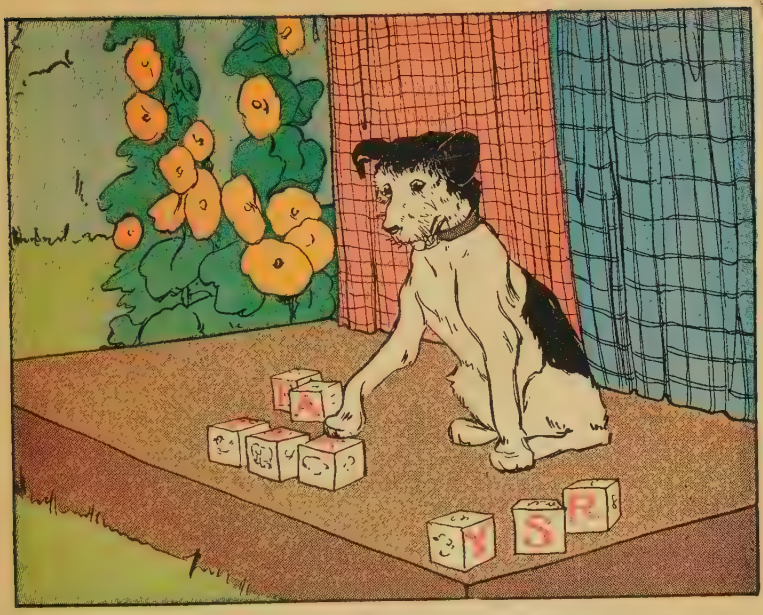
Jack and Jane had a circus.
They made tickets.
They made pink tickets.
They made white tickets.
The pink tickets were □ .
The white tickets were ○ .
The children came.
Some bought pink tickets.
Some bought white tickets.



Billy came out.
The children said,
"What can Billy do?"
Billy pulled the wagon.
Kitty was in the wagon.
Billy ran around and around.
Kitty said,
"Meow, meow.
I want to get out."
Soon she jumped out.



The children said,
"What can Terry do?"
Terry could stand
on his hind legs.
The children said,
"Good for Terry."



This was not all Terry could do.
Jane put blocks on the floor.
There were letters on the blocks.
Terry could find T-E-R-R-Y.
The children said,

"Terry, you are a good dog.
This circus is fun."

JACK RABBIT'S SCHOOL

There was a little rabbit.
His name was Jack Rabbit.
His mother's name was Mother Rabbit.
They lived in a nest in the garden.

Every day Jack Rabbit went to school.

He did not sing at school.

He did not read at school.

He did not write at school.

He went to a rabbit school.

Mother Rabbit was the teacher.

This is what Jack Rabbit did at school.

"This morning, Jack, you must learn to get away from a dog," said Mother Rabbit.

"What is a dog, Mother?" said Jack Rabbit.

"A dog can catch little rabbits," said Mother Rabbit.

"Will a dog catch me?" said Jack.

"A dog will not catch you if you do as I say," said Mother Rabbit.

Then Mother Rabbit put Jack
Rabbit in the nest.

"Be still, Jack," she said.
"Be as still as you can.
Then the dog can not see you."
"Yes, Mother," said Jack.
"When Blue Jay screams, it is time to be still," said Mother Rabbit.
"He screams when a dog is coming."

"Is school out now?" said Jack Rabbit.
"I want to play."
"Run and play," said Mother Rabbit.
Jack Rabbit ran and ran.
He ran around and around.
He wanted Mother Rabbit to run after him.

Soon Blue Jay screamed.

"Come, Jack," said
Mother Rabbit.

"A dog is coming.

Get in the weeds.

Be still and I will give that dog a good run."

"Yes, Mother," said Jack.

Mother Rabbit put Jack Rabbit in the weeds.

Then away she went.

She jumped out before the dog.

She did not want the dog to see Jack Rabbit.

"Bow wow," said the dog.

Away ran Mother Rabbit.
The dog was at her feet.
Around and around ran
Mother Rabbit.
In and out she went.
She came to some water.
Into the water she jumped.
Soon she got away from the dog.

After a time Mother Rabbit went back to her nest.
She looked for little Jack Rabbit.
He was not in the nest.
Where could he be?
She looked and looked.
Not far away she saw him.
He had come out of the nest to see the fun.

Mother Rabbit kicked Jack Rabbit with her hind feet.

He fell over in the mud.

"So this is the way you stay in the nest," said Mother Rabbit.

JACK RABBIT'S SCHOOL

Where did Jack Rabbit go to school?

What did he learn?

Where did Mother Rabbit put Jack?

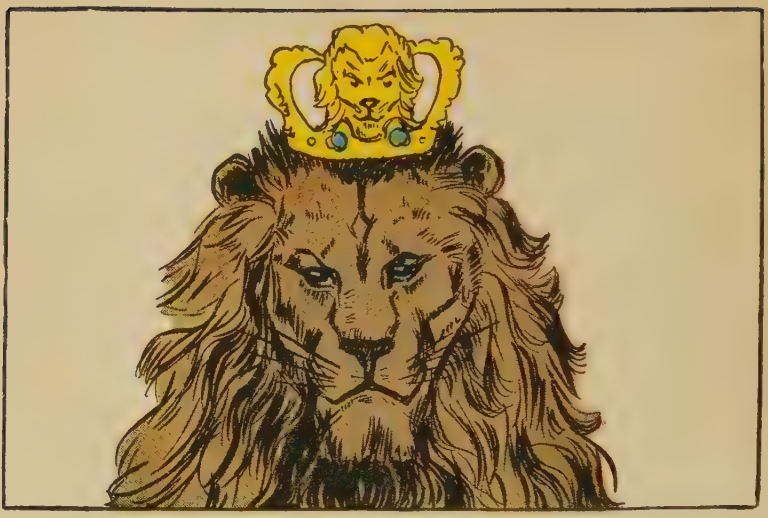
What did Mother Rabbit say to him?

What did Blue Jay do?

What did Mother Rabbit do to get the dog away from Jack Rabbit?

What did Jack Rabbit do when Mother Rabbit went away?

What did Mother Rabbit do to Jack when she came back?



THE BABY SHOW

One time the animals had a baby show.
The king of the animals was to give a prize.
Every mother came with her baby.
They came from far, far away.

Mother Dog came with her baby.
The baby played with his tail.
Mother thought her baby was fine.

Pussy came with her baby.
The little kitty played with a ball.

"What a fine baby I have,"
said Mother Pussy.

Mother Elephant came with her baby.

The little elephant danced
on his hind legs.

Mother Elephant thought he was fine.

Mother Monkey had her baby.
The baby monkey was little.
He could not run.
He could not play.
He was not pretty.
Mother Monkey said,
"I have the finest baby of all."

The animals made fun of the baby monkey.
Mother Monkey said,
"You may laugh at my baby,
but he is dear to me."

The king looked at every baby.
No one got the prize.
Every mother thought her baby was finest of all.

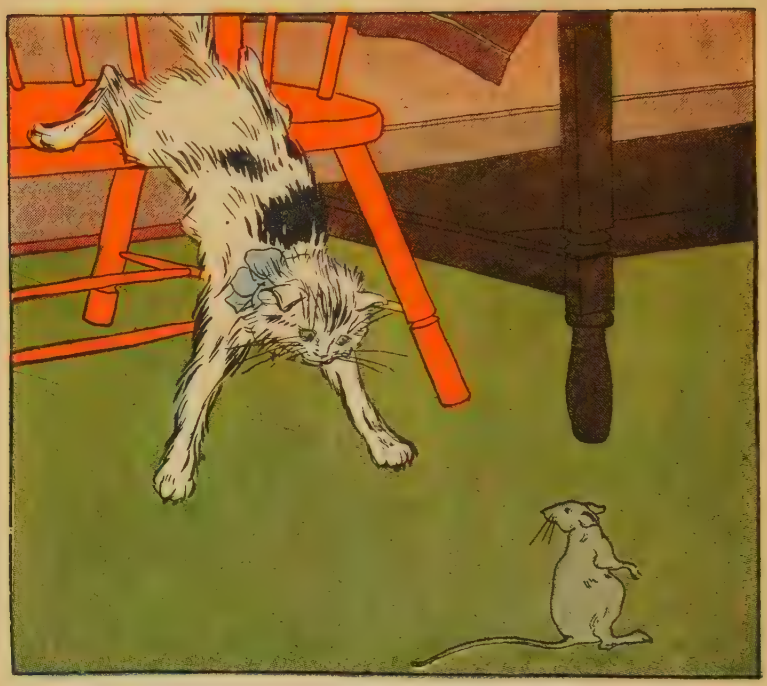
PUSSY MOPPET

This is Pussy.
She is Pussy Moppet.
She hears a mouse.
Where is that mouse?
Pussy Moppet will catch that mouse and then the mouse will wish that he had kept still.



This is the mouse.
He is near the table.
He is looking at Pussy Moppet.
He is not afraid of Pussy.
He thinks he can run away from Pussy.

Pussy Moppet saw the mouse and jumped.

But she jumped too late.

The mouse ran.

Pussy Moppet hit her head on the table.

The mouse ran away.

Pussy Moppet thinks it is a hard table.

She put a big handkerchief around her head.

The mouse thinks Pussy looks sick.

He comes down the table leg.

Pussy Moppet is very still.

The mouse thinks Pussy Moppet is very sick.

The mouse comes very close.

The handkerchief has a hole in it.

Pussy Moppet looks at the mouse.

The mouse thinks
Pussy can not see him.
The mouse came too close.
Then Pussy Moppet jumped.
This time she got the mouse.
She put him in her handkerchief.
Now Pussy Moppet thinks she will make fun of the mouse.
She plays ball with him.
She throws the handkerchief up.
She catches it.
Then she throws it down.

Pussy Moppet forgot that the handkerchief had a hole in it.

Soon there was no mouse.

He got out and ran away.

He was glad to get away.

He ran to the top of the table.

He was so glad that he danced on the table.
